Prunes are said to be poisoned in canning of the mold between skins of pulp and the mingling of the pool, driven in by the cooking with the acids. The Board of Health of New York has condemned and confiscated the frozen prunes shipped from Florida to that city for sale. They are "prizen"—the words not the Board of Health.

San Francisco Post climbs up on the editorial hobs and remarks: "Maud Muller Stallsyx-McCormick freezingly asks her father 'Mr. Miller.' He would be more relishable by calling her Mrs. Stallsyx if the correct surname were inserted in such a haze of uncertainty. Maud should produce her marriage papers and go after her investigating dad doubting dad.

A grant of perfect marble has been sought for in California, and is reported to have been found lot. Inyo county furnishes the finest article, and the marble men lately discovered there is of more value than a gold or silver mine. It is said to be of as fine quality as the Carrara or Italian marble, and will find material enough for several marble halls.

The New Orleans Picayune (Dem.) says: The colored man makes a better citizen than a Republican. As a Republican he wanted a share of the spoils and became troublesome. As a citizen he is respectful in the ranks, peaceful, and not troublesome to his neighbors.

Of the Democratic idea, frankly stated, of the true position for the "party" to occupy in the Bourbon South. Let the mokes meditate on the same.

The Los Angeles, not content with the Democratic house paper in the world, is to have a journal printed in Greek. Perhaps some public-spirited citizen will subscribe for the Herald to print its flings at the Greek fruits of Northern California in the Greek language.—[San Francisco Post.

It is to be understood from the above that the Post assumes that the daily issue of the "hebdomadal" is printed in English! Not if the late lamented Dewey knew himself!

Some raisin growers in San Diego county put some boxes of their products before President Cleveland, accompanied by a polite note in which the writers expressed a fresh malignity to say that they cherished "ratsinable" sentiments concerning him. Instead of proclaiming martial law at San Diego, the President sent a reply in which he returned the compliment as an reference to the outrage.—[San Francisco Post.

The impressing operation is evidently necessary in the case of Mr. Cleveland when the San Diego raisin-growers commend in injecting a joke into the intellectual cranium.

The Examiner claims the floor to say: "The San Bernardino contemporary is under the impression that 'the newspapers of San Francisco are engaged in a attempt to stab Los Angeles and injure California by representing Kern county to be as good an orange-growing region as Los Angeles and San Bernardino.'" The stabbing scheme alleged by the Examiner with scorn as base insinuation against the dignity of the Frisco press. Not to be outdone in impossibility by our bay cotemporaries, we rise up on end and declare that the Kern Citrus Belt of California is about Alameda base and meridian, bearing west by nor'west three and one-half points towards Siberia.

The discussion of street paving at the joint meeting of citizens and Councilmen last evening was earnest and practical, and ought to be productive of good results. There was no divergence of opinion as to the necessity of paving, and the most that was said against the project was that the city might first to have its systems of sewers and pipes well established, before beginning the work at the bottom. It is eminently sound, and, with the large sum voted in bonds for the improvement of the sewer system, ought to be comparatively easy of accomplishment. As to paving material, a majority of expert opinions seemed to be largely in favor of a foundation of broken, well packed,, and covered with asphaltum. It was urged that there is an abundance of the best rock and asphalt at the very doors of the city, and at the expense of paving should fashion not be excessive. Acting on the recommendation of the meeting, the Council will endeavor to secure the consent of property owners on paving streets, between First and Second. It is going so much of that thoroughfare, and will then trust in the little leaven leavening the whole loaf. This, while not a very vigorous method of commencing, is probably, under the circumstances, the best. The Board of Los Angeles are a highly public spirited and emulous of good example. A little artificial stone sidewalk will lead, a couple of years hence, to the subsequent laying of several miles of the same kind, alignment of our principal streets. The opening of one block of good pavement will be no doubt work similar results. Let the simple paving go on!

AMUSEMENTS.

Grace Hawthorne.—The Eastern press have been quite enthusiastic in their praise of this charming young actress, and the New Orleans Times-Democrat said:

Grace Hawthorne is bold enough to aspire to the role of Camille within a few days after its presentment here by the greatest of American emotional actresses, but she does it so well that the boldness is forgotten. Her acting is refined, intelligent and sympathetic. In the emotional climaxes of the third act Miss Hawthorne added to intelligence a degree of passionate force, which, it may safely be said, was a great surprise to those who had not seen her before. The auditorium was filled with a good class of people, who recognized Miss Hawthorne's undoubted merit and lodged and cordial responses, and from their actions it is safe to presume that they accepted her as the equal of Agnes Morris in this her greatest character.

Placerita Gold.

At the place of J. G. Evans, 305 North Main street, a reporter of the TIMES yesterday saw a bottle full of gold nuggets and dust ($120) taken from the diggings of the Placerita Mining, Milling and Water Co. This claim adjoins that of Evans and his associates, which was described at length in the TIMES a few days ago. The Placerita company are hydraulicking in a small way, and have sunk down to bedrock. The gold recovered ranges in size from the finest dust to nuggets worth $5, $10, and $20. Mr. Evans will show his specimens to anybody who is interested in the matter.

Official Explanation of the Crawford Affair.

THE DAKOTA BILL PASSES THE SENATE.

Filz John Porter's Case in the House—Proposed Investigation of the Traffic in Liquor.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Señor Romero, Mexican Minister at Washington, has received from the government of the State of Chihuahua, Mexico, an official report of the unfortunate encounter which the Mexican forces had with United States troops commanded by Captain Crawford, in the mountains of Bavis, Chihuahua, on the 11th ult. It is stated in this report that the Mexican force commanded by Major Mauricio Corredor, arrived on that day at a place called Tiopar, in the State of Bavis, where they knew that the Apache Indians had revolted under the leadership of Geronimo. The Mexicans fired on the United States troops in the belief that they were hostiles. In the fight which ensued Major Mauricio Corredor, First Lieutenant Juan de la Cruz, and Privates Mariona Madrid and Luz Estrada were killed, and four other soldiers wounded. As soon as the Mexican forces found out that they were firing on United States soldiers they stopped firing and expressed to the latter their regret at the losses occasioned to both commands. The report gives as an excuse for the above mistake the difficulty of distinguishing the renegade Indians from scouts, and says that while the latter generally behave themselves, when in their camp and under view of their officers, when they get out, under the pretext of hunting or looking for hostile Indians or others, they sometimes commit great depredations on the peaceable inhabitants of the frontier, and cannot readily be distinguished from hostile Indians. It was reported from Mexico that the scouts killed and wounded on the 17th of December a considerable number of cattle and horses belonging to Mexicans, and that on the 23d, while they were in camp at a place distant about a mile from Guasima, Bavis, seven of the scouts entered the village and committed great outrages, and the mayor was forced to ask for armed forces to bring them to order, and one of the scouts was wounded. The same Indians killed two men who were grazing mules loaded with goods, which were stolen by the scouts. It is also reported that three Mexicans were attacked by scouts on the 27th of January on the road that leads from Nacosari to Cumpas. The Mexicans succeeded in escaping, but their donkeys, their carpoes and packsaddles were captured. The report says that the Constitution, the official journal of the State of Sonora, contains a detailed statement of all the outrages committed by scouts, and the result has been a petition to the Governor of the general government not to allow scouts to cross into Mexican territory.

LIQUOR TRAFFIC TO BE INVESTIGATED.

Senator Blair, from the Committee on Education and Labor, to-day reported favorably Frye's bill to provide for the appointment by the President of a commission of five persons to investigate the alcoholic liquor traffic. It provides that the members of the commission shall be selected solely with reference to their personal fitness and capacity for an honest, impartial and thorough investigation. It stipulates that all of them shall not be advocates of prohibitory legislation or of total abstinence, and that no one shall serve without salary. Their duties shall be to investigate the alcoholic liquor traffic, its relations to revenue and taxation and its general economic, its criminal, moral and scientific aspects in connection with pauperism and crimes, social value, public health and the general welfare of the people, to take testimony as to the practical results of license and prohibitory legislation for the prevention of intemperance in the several States, and to report the result of their investigation to the President, to be by him transmitted to Congress. It appropriates $10,000 for the expenses of the investigation.

DEMOCRATS WHO FAVOR SILVER.

Representative Bland, voicing the opinion of the silver Democrats of the House, desires to correct the impression which, he says, prevailed on Wednesday last regarding the vote against Mr. Hewitt's motion to recommit, with instructions, the resolution reported from the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, calling for information as to silver circulation. He says that, of 90 votes for the motion, 39 were Republicans or silver men, and while of 164 against it 80 were cast by Democrats, showing a majority of 20 Democrats against the motion. He further says that there were many Democrats who are silver men who voted for Mr. Hewitt's motion because they doubted the propriety of asking the Secretary of the Treasury to define his future policy as to silver payment.

TO FIGHT APACHES.

The House Committee on Military Affairs to-day by vote of six to one passed Lieutenant Colonel Dudley Laird's bill in behalf of the people of Arizona and New Mexico. It provides for raising one regiment of volunteer cavalry in each territory for one year's service, to be composed of and officered by actual residents of the Territories named. Two Mexican ponies are to be furnished each officer and soldier, and whenever these are insufficient to make vigorous pursuit of hostile Indians, the regimental quartermasters are authorized to supply the deficiency from any herds accessible without delay, giving vouchers for such animals as may be taken from private citizens. Pack animals are to be provided as a means of the transportation of supplies in addition to the Government wagon-trains.

XLIX CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—In the Senate, on motion of Mr. Harrison the Dakota bill was taken up. Considerable discussion took place and the substitute offered by Mr. Butler was defeated by a vote of yeas 22, nays 38.

The bill reported from the committee was then passed—yeas 32, nays 22. The only Democrat voting in the affirmative was Mr. Voorhees. The negative votes were all Democratic.

The bill divides the Territory of Dakota on the line of the 46th parallel of latitude, provides for the admission of the southern portion as a State under the title of "Dakota," and for the organization of the northern portion in the House resolution calling for copies of any contract or lease between the Southern Pacific Railway Company and any land grant road, and of any consent thereto between the Pacific Steamship Company and any land grant road. Referred.

On motion of Mr. Laird, of Nebraska, a resolution was adopted making the Fitz John Porter bill a continuing special order from Thursday, the 11th inst., until Thursday, the 18th inst., including the night session on Tuesday evening. The House then adjourned until Monday.

A Life Sentence.

FRESNO, Cal., Feb. 5.—The jury in the case of Fidele Beezy, charged with murder, after being out one hour, rendered a verdict of murder in the first degree, with a life sentence. Beezy killed Mengetti, his cousin, on a farm near Kingsburg, this county, two years ago. He was tried and convicted of manslaughter, and sentenced to ten years. The Supreme Court granted a new trial.

DAVITT SUPPORTS GLADSTONE'S PLAN

Salisbury Thinks the Labor Question More Important than the Land Problem—Other Foreign News.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Times.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—The Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, has been appointed Viceroy of Ireland. Baron Wolverton, ex-Paymaster General has been appointed Postmaster General. The new government is now completed, all the minor places having been filled. Mr. Charles Russell, Liberal member for Hackney, the new Attorney General, in his address requesting a re-election by his constituents he proclaims himself in favor of allowing Irishmen to deal with Irish questions on Irish soil, while at the same time he favors maintaining all the safeguards of the sovereignty of the Crown. He advocates a "real union founded on mutual good will," which he says would be sure to follow the abandonment of the present coercive relations between the countries.

DAVITT SUPPORTS GLADSTONE.

Michael Davitt, speaking at Halloway to-night, said that he believed that Mr. Gladstone was the only English statesman that had the courage and ability to grapple with the Irish problem and establish peace between England and Ireland. The Premier, Mr. Davitt said, had already settled the question of religious equality, and had made an honest attempt to solve the land problem. His failure to deal in a satisfactory manner with the latter question was due to the fact that he had not gone to the root of the matter.

SALISBURY'S ADDRESS TO THE UNEMPLOYED.

The Marquis of Salisbury to-day received a deputation of unemployed workmen, who called to urge upon him the necessity for Government help. Lord Salisbury told the men that he considered the question they presented more serious than the Irish question. He, however, deemed the policy in vogue among foreign governments of fostering industries by granting bounties from the public treasury, calling it false political economy. He expressed the hope that the electors of Great Britain would give Parliament the power to influence foreign governments to abandon such a policy. Concerning the land question, Lord Salisbury said that the proposals to benefit the poor by furnishing land to reclaim was impracticable, for the reason that nobody would invest capital in land if the owner could be ousted so long as the good lands of the country do no pay. In conclusion, the ex-Premier declared that statesmen and Parliament must concentrate their efforts of now best to solve the problem of relieving the present general distress, which was growing, while the population was increasing, and caused immigration. Statesmen, he declared, in spite of private enterprise might be a good way to afford temporary relief, and the promotion of public works might be another. He would to his utmost to contribute to a satisfactory solution of the problem.

THE CABLE COMPANIES' WAR.

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Anglo-American Cable Company to-day it was reported that the receipts for 1885 had been reduced £34,926 by the rate cutting of the competition of the Mackay-Bennett Company. The Chairman of the Anglo-American Company predicted that there would soon be a general peace in cable tariffs. He declared that if the Mackay-Bennett people declined to be influenced by reasons in favor of peace, while a war of rates would be inevitable.

NOT VERY EXPLICIT.

John Morley's address to his constituents makes no mention of the policy which he will follow.

Mr. Trevelyn in his address refers to his previous speeches and says that he hopes that the government will adopt such a policy as he advocated. He concurs with Mr. Gladstone, that coercive measures in Ireland would be of no value.

A CLERICAL OPINION.

Archbishop Croke approves of the scheme to buy out the Irish landlords. The Archbishop believes that the rental of the whole of Ireland is under £7,000,000, and further, that as the Irish tenantry will not accept a scheme giving the landlords anything like a twenty-years'-rent purchase, the estimate, he thinks, of £16,000,000 is too high. He believes that the present imperial expenditures in Ireland of £4,000,000 is ample to meet the interest on the funds required for the purchase of the lands. The Irish leaders do not ask for confiscation—only for fair play. They do not dream of separating from England.

THE GALLOWS.

Two Desperadoes Expiate Their Crimes.

PRESCOTT, A. T., Feb. 5.—Dennis W. Dilda was publicly executed to-day in the presence of nearly 1000 people for the murder of Deputy Sheriff J. M. Murphy, on December 20th last. The scaffold was erected in the woods about half a mile from town. He spent a sleepless night, and arose early and partook heartily of breakfast, which he ate with much relish. He talked and laughed and smoked during the forenoon, and was apparently less concerned than if it was his wedding day instead of the day of his death. He maintained this composure until the end, except that while his limbs were being pinioned he called for whisky. He refused to see any minister or priest. He also refused to make any confession of his crimes. The trap was sprung at 11:56 by Sheriff Mulvenon, and in fifteen minutes life was pronounced extinct. In addition to the crime for which he was hung, Dilda had murdered a man named Jenkins in this county, also a negro in Texas, and was suspected of other murders.

DIED PROTESTING HIS INNOCENCE.

DENVER, Col., Feb. 5.—Si Minich, one of the men who murdered Samuel Baldwin near Leadville, October, 18, 1884, for $1700, was hanged at Leadville this afternoon. Up to yesterday evening Minich expected Governor Eaton to commute his sentence to life imprisonment, and was very indifferent, driving the clergymen out of his cell with violent blasphemy. This morning, when he discovered that he must hang, he called loudly for a preacher, and earnestly prayed for the Almighty's forgiveness. He ascended the scaffold at 1:30 p. m., a cigar in his mouth and a smile on his face, and was launched into eternity denying his guilt to the last minute.

A FIENDISH DEED.

Attempt to Burn Six Men—The Victims Badly Injured.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 5.—A horrible attempt upon human life was perpetrated last night shortly after 10 o'clock in a shanty near the railroad tracks in East St. Louis. Some railroad men were attracted to the shanty by the glare of fire and heart-rending cries from six men who were in the shanty. The door was broken down, and two men rushed out enveloped in flames, while four others were carried out and rolled in the snow. The faces of the victims were blackened, and long strips of flesh peeled off, presenting a horrible sight. The unfortunate men said that they had strolled into the shanty one by one to get warm, and were sitting around the stove talking when suddenly the stove burst open and flames leaped all over the room, enveloping the men. The fire was the result either of a prank or joke or a deliberate attack on their lives to settle an old grudge. The strange manner in which the fire started can only be accounted for on the principle of now best to solve the problem of relieving the present general distress, which was growing, while the population was increasing, and caused immigration. Statesmen, in spite of private enterprise might be a good way to afford temporary relief, and the promotion of public works might be another. He would to his utmost to contribute to a satisfactory solution of the problem.

FREEZING.

Intensely Cold Weather on the Atlantic Coast.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The thermometer this morning stands at six degrees below zero. The present cold snap is by far the coldest of the season and the suffering among the poor is very great. Trains on the elevated railroads are greatly delayed, and owing to snow it is almost impossible for the horse-cars to make headway. Twenty persons who walked across the Brooklyn bridge yesterday had some portion of their bodies frozen. Charitable persons bought large numbers of tickets for rides in the Brooklyn bridge cars and had the police give them to poorly-clad persons who attempted to walk across.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—This morning was the coldest of the season. The thermometer at the Signal Office registered two degrees below zero at 7 o'clock.

A LEGAL SNARL.

Some Queer Things Alleged of the House of Fisher & Co.

The affairs of C. L. Fisher & Co., boot and shoe dealers, who recently failed for a large sum, present a legal tangle which the courts will no doubt take a long time to unravel. The first intimation of the failure was the appointment of W. A. Morgan as assignee. Then there were a couple of attachments filed, and the Sheriff took charge of the effects, temporarily ousting the assignee. Action was brought by Morgan against Sheriff Gard to recover, and Gard, by his attorneys, filed a voluminous answer, alleging fraud in the inventories and assignment. Yesterday an action was brought by F. A. Gibson, executor of the estate of Goodhue, who died January 10, and who was a partner in the firm of Fisher & Co. at the time of his death. Mr. Gibson's complaint, which is also voluminous, alleges fraud extending back to the time when Goodhue was taken into the business, and claims that the house was virtually insolvent then. Goodhue traded a farm worth $12,000 for the interest of I. W. Lord in the firm. The present suit asks to set aside that transaction, as it was based on misrepresentations by Fisher & Lord. The complaint also alleges irregularities on the part of Fisher after the formation of the last copartnership.

PAVING.

The Council and Citizens Labor With the Problem.

THE STREETS OUGHT TO BE PAVED.

And the Question is: How to Do It? Macadam Covered with Asphalt Generally Favored.

A special session of the Council, to discuss street-paving, was held last evening, the Councilmen present being Stearns, Santee, Breed, Frankenfield, Kuhrts, Willard, Jones, Sinsabaugh, Bullis and Goss. Dr. Sinsabaugh called the body to order at 7 o'clock, and stated the object of the meeting.

On motion the Council then resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole, with Councilman Stearns in the chair, for an informal discussion of the subject. About forty prominent citizens were present in the lobby, and these gentlemen were invited to participate.

Dr. Owens of Cincinnati, being called upon, said he had seen a good deal of paving in many cities of America and Europe; had made a scientific study of the subject. Cincinnati appropriated $4,000,000 to improve its streets. Granite and asphaltum were used. Stone was used first, but the weight of opinion finally favored asphaltum. The Doctor had visited Washington, New York City, Rochester and St. Louis in this country, London and Paris in Europe. Everywhere that cobble stones have been used, they are being taken up and streets laid with Belgian blocks, granite or asphaltum. In Liverpool the authorities are taking up granite blocks and laying asphaltum. Neufchatel is also laying asphaltum. At Rochester, N. Y., most thorough tests of the asphaltum pavement were made at which people were present from every part of the State. The test was eminently satisfactory. The committee there recommended asphaltum for business streets and granite for outside streets. An essential point is the laying of a good foundation. It should be rolled and thoroughly packed. Some cities use concrete for this purpose. Streets are generally laid crowning, and six inches higher in the center than at the gutters.

Mr. Bryson said that in Paris, ten years ago, he saw workmen laying streets. A concrete foundation was first laid; then sand and rock laid over it and asphaltum put on top.

Dr. Orne said that the proper proportions of the mixture were 70 per cent. sand, 20 per cent. asphaltum and 10 per cent. lime. In Cincinnati $3.25 per square yard is about the cost. The pavement is cut out to lay gas and water pipes, and when relaid, the place where it was broken can hardly be found.

C. D. Bates said he had had experience in laying granite and Belgian blocks. He has examined asphaltum in Los Angeles and in other places, and likes it. San Francisco and Santa Cruz have used asphaltum and pronounce it good. Mr. Bates showed samples of asphalt composition taken from streets, with pieces of rock adhering.

Dr. Widney thought that, whatever was done, cobble-stones and rough blocks only be accounted for on the principle that some wretch poured oil or powder down the chimney to the stove. It is said that the man who perpetrated the deed is known, as he had a grudge against one of the men, and declared but recently that he would get even if it took years. Near the shanty was found an oil can. The railroad men who ran to the rescue saw a man retreating from the shanty.

ENLARGED SHEET

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1886.

Attorney-General Garland.

This pretentious Democratic official, who went into Cleveland's Cabinet as a professional pink of perfection, has long been exhibiting signs of "falling down," and we now make the prediction that he will be prostrate in the midst of disgrace before His term of office expires.

Some weeks since an Arizona cotemporary, the Citizen of Tucson, called attention to an episode in the official career of Garland which seems not to have attracted the attention its importance deserves. The Citizen stated the case thus:

The Pan Electric Telephone and Hot Springs lease transactions, though disgraceful to public officers, pale into insignificance when viewed in the light of the approval by Garland, while Governor of Arkansas, of the official bond of the defaulting State Treasurer Churchill. The facts briefly stated are as follows: When Churchill was elected Treasurer of the State, one Jones [so called, but whose true name was Raphe Haymond], with Garland's help, became sureties on his official bond. The laws of Arkansas required this bond to be approved by the Governor. Before it was submitted to Garland as Governor for his approval, the name of Jones [Haymond] had been erased. Garland, with full knowledge of the ersaure, approved the bond. Some years subsequently, Churchill, as the country knows, became a defaulter to the State in the sum of ninety odd thousand dollars. When defalcation was discovered, Garland, the man of high moral ideas, the man who sickens and grows pale at the bare thought of an honest man having brought into the immoral atmosphere of New Mexico, commences proceedings in the Chancery Court at Little Rock in behalf of himself and Jones as co-sureties to said bond and release the sureties, alleging as the ground upon which relief was sought, that the name of Jones [Haymond] had been erased after the signatures had been appended, and without the knowledge of the other sureties. Of course Garland and the other sureties were released, and poor old Rackensack had to shoulder the loss. Garland is the lawyer his henchmen claim that he is, did he not know when he approved Churchill's bond that the erasure of Jones [Haymond's] name rendered it invalid and released the sureties? If he did not, then he is unfit for the high place he occupies. If he did, which of the two is the better man, Dorsey or Garland?

This is a coup de main—a blow evidently struck by a writer who knew exactly where he was aiming, and hit the bull's-eye fair and square (not saying that Attorney-General Garland is either a bull or a bull whacker).

Here are a couple more of close shots at Mr. Cleveland's law officer. They were fired by the San Francisco Post from its editorial paragraphic fieldpiece.

The story that $750,000 had been placed in the hands of a "leading manager" of the Bell Telephone interest to subsidize the press against Garland is slightly fishy. The amount stated would reach the correspondents after passing through the hands of the leading manager would not be likely to work much for a revolution in public sentiment. Besides, why should the press write down Mr. Garland? He is making pretty good progress at it himself.

Attorney General Garland may be an honest man. He owns $1,500,000 in Pan Electric Telephone stock, obtained for almost nothing. If the Bell patents shall be sustained, this stock will probably be worth more than its face value; if not, it will be unsalable at any price. Mr. Garland is the officer through whose department proceedings against the Bell patent must be brought. We are requested to think that if Mr. Garland saw anything wrong in his conduct he would try to hide it, dispose of his stock or resign. This would be a very pure and innocent world if all minds were as pure and innocent as Mr. Garland's friends ask the public to believe his is.

The judgment of the country touching the Attorney General seems to be slowly but surely crystallizing. That judgment, when fully made up, will be: "Mr. Garland, you won't do."

"Convicted Out of Its Own Mouth."

That's what's the matter with the Los Angeles Herald. We have diagnosed its case, and we know. It is beautiful, simply beautiful, to witness the performances of the Herald in its new and unaccustomed role of a virtuous public benefactor, whose frugal and incorruptible soul recoils with horror at the bare thought of charging the county even a moiety of current commercial rates for public advertising. The Herald reverts to the matter of its gall-inspired offer to print the delinquent tax-list—nearly five pages of solid nonpareil type—for the ridiculously inadequate sum of $250 for the three insertions required by law; and, smiling a sickly and hypocritical smile, it pretends to say that it is "entirely satisfied" with its contract, and is "realizing money by it," and that the job is "profitable." That is to say, when brought down to facts and figures, which are not sophistry and slush, the Herald undertakes to assert that it is delighted with the opportunity to do work for the public at about one-eighth or one-tenth the price it habitually charges it customers, the business men of Los Angeles, for transient commercial and legal advertising. Let the facts and figures be invoked in support of our proposition: The delinquent tax-list, as published in the Herald, makes, in round numbers, thirteen hundred (1300) squares, for three insertions of which it is to get $250. This is at the rate of about six and one-half cents per square for each insertion; or less than 20 cents per square for the three insertions required. Now what rates per square is the Herald in the habit of charging its private customers for three insertions of their transient advertisements? What are its "schedule" commercial rates per square?" We don't pretend to know exactly, but they do most certainly approximate $1.50 or $1.00 per square for three insertions, or about eight times the price of the delinquent-tax-list contract! At this rate the printing of the delinquent list would amount, in round numbers, to two thousand dollars. But the Herald protests that "because of the largeness of the job," lower or "wholesale" rates should apply to the tax-list. Granted, freely. Then suppose we knock off 33⅓ per cent. from the $2,000. That would still leave $1,300, or $1 per square, as the fair price of that work; or, dividing the higher sum by two, it would make the job worth, net, $1,000. As a matter of fact, does the Herald not believe that it ought, in equity, to get $1,300 for the work it is doing? But of course we cannot expect a candid and honest answer from a journal guilty of the petty practices of that concern in the matter of competitive bids. Its insane jealousy of a rival makes it mad—and mendacious.

The TIMES considers that it got no more than a fair price for this work last year, to-wit, $1.10 per square for three insertions. If the price mounted up, it was because the list was longthat is all. But when you talk about six and a half cents a square—bah! We sicken of you!

One thing is certain: The Herald in this matter has "convicted itself out of its own mouth" of a shameful discrimination against its own advertising patrons—the very patrons from whom it draws its sustenance, and who make its existence possible. When it does advertising for the county for six and one-half cents per square, declaring itself "satisfied" with that rate, and at the same time charges business men and others from fifty cents to one dollar per square for single insertions, is the Herald guilty of anything less than "cuchering" its private customers, the business men of Los Angeles aforesaid? We think not! Go to, thou hypocrite and word-juggler! We sicken of your sophistry.

To the Editor of the Times—SIR: Several months ago I wrote some articles to your paper in which I referred to the badness of the drinking water supplied to the city of Los Angeles, both by the Los Angeles City Water Company, and the Beandry system. In speaking of my views you editorially remarked that they were probably too extreme to have much influence. One of the most extreme of my claims then was that "the Beandry water" is but the contaminated surface seepage from the river; and to the extent that it percolates through the soil but a few feet below the vaults and drains of the heavy population living on Date street and in the vicinity of the new depot, is worse even than the alkaline waters of the river, which carry so much disease-breeding organic matter, in addition to their injurious chemical unfitness for human use. Besides the editorial left-hander, a carping critic arose who knew all about the matter. He showed that the "Beandry water" came chiefly from the "artesian" and undefiled, from sub-mundane granite depths profound—that it was no independent "spring." Since then this "spring" has received a black eye from the physicians. But the worst blow comes from Mr. V. Beandry himself. In plain English he "lets the cat out of the bag." In Mr Beandry's letter to the City Council, published in the TIMES of January 27th, that gentleman, the owner of said water works, says:

"The city authorities some time ago placed the Alameda street setter at such a depth as to seriously dim inish the amount of water flowing into my supply reservoir."

How is that for a "spring?" It is the first time I ever heard of a "spring" being cut off by a sewer, no matter how deep the latter might be. Does not this show conclusively the filthy, drainage character of the Beandry water? Editor, even if it does hurt some rich men's pockets, the truth should be known in regard to the kind of water we are drinking. Especially so, as we can procure good water. It may be permitted that human life is of little importance in comparison with money, and that the sale of town lots merits more attention than the public health, yet even in a financial point of view it is a very narrow and unwise policy which covers up the truth in regard to such a vital matter simply to benefit a few rich and purse-proud men to the injury of the mass, and to the discredit of the fair fame of our city as a healthful place for residence. The simple truth is, the water this city is getting is not fit for use. There is pure, good mountain water accessible, and it should be brought into the city, even if water barons do suffer. OLD SETTLER.

THE NEW PHASE OF THE ORANGE.

Letter From a Cleveland Firm of Commission Merchants.

A. W. Brainard, of the Sierra Madre Colony, has received the following letter, under date of January 19th, from A. B. Williams & Co., commission merchants of Cleveland, Ohio. The oranges referred to were grown on Mr. Brainard's Sierra Madre place:

Dear Sir: Your brother here, knowing us to be large dealers in Florida and California fruits, called us in on arrival of your sample lot of oranges a few days ago, to have us look at them and to sample them. We have the candor to say that your fruit is as fine in quality, flavor and appearance as any we ever saw, and that is saying a good deal.

If this is a fair average sample of your fruit, we think it would sell in this market quick at splendid prices. Owing to the terrible frost of January 7 and 9 covering a large part of the State of Florida, their fruit has been in many localities utterly ruined. But for this calamity Florida would have largely monopolized our market until about March 1st. This calamity has brought a change in the situation, and from now on California will have almost a clear field. We have had several inquiries from your principal growers and shippers, asking our advice with reference to shipments. Up to within a week past we have advised the holding back of your fruit as long as possible, so as not to bring it into competition with the Florida crop. Now this is all changed, and we can say with confidence to all our California friends that we think from now on the Eastern markets will more than meet their expectations. All we ask is that their shipments shall be choice and of best varieties, and we feel confident the returns from this market will fully meet their views. We have any amount of this fruit to ship. East we would take pleasure in handling it for you in this market. We are preparing a letter to growers and shippers for publication covering certain points of interest to them.

How He Halts There To Rest and Grow Strong.

A TOURIST'S LETTER.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL., December 8, 1885.—The health-seeker or other traveler on first landing on the Asiatic side of the Pacific ocean is given by the European-Americans there the degree of Globe-trotter, with right thenceforth to affix the initials of honor, "G. T." to his or her name! And surely a further degree, that of Globe-trotter upon those who, having trotted the world over for health or relaxation from over-work, finally reach this haven of delight. They will surely come to roost here with the birds of winter passage! And finding here that above all earthly sense of rest and peace, that sense of having left a world of care and chase and got to the halfway heaven, ought they not to be honored with the title of Past Globe-trotter, with the name-affix of "P. G. T."?

It may be an old story to Pacific dwellers, but to the rest of the world north of the tropics it will be never-ceasing wonder for spring to begin in the first days of December. Yet so it is here. The rains of last month have been succeeded by two weeks already of that elastic spring sunshine which seems to set Nature's heels to fairly dancing with the rhythm of the poetry and tune of the music in the air. The new growth of 1886 has already begun here. The hills and fields are of that vernal green which typifies ever-renewing youth and life.

We spend December 3d at the hospitable home of Mr. W. M. Eddy, Santa Barbara's banker, and to see the familiar trees of our own New England associations—elm, sycamore, elder and others—all budding out anew, to hear the robins, bluebirds, thrushes and yellow-birds, just as in a New England April or May time, is a curious sensation for December. "Are those trees awake and their buds 'up for all day?'" we asked. "Yes, indeed," was the reply, "this is our spring in Santa Barbara."

The hotels here are home-like indeed. The absence of trade, to any extent, keeps out that home-upsetting atmosphere of business interests. Men and women pass their time together, and not in separate set groups.

The Arlington is acknowledged to be the best hotel on this coast. It is like a gentleman's country-seat, in the midst of gardens and with broad verandas, where its guests live most of the day, out of doors in the sunshine. The eastern veranda is like a sunroom, about 180 feet long and 20 feet broad, filled with the fragrance of roses, geraniums and verbenas.

The hotel table is supplied from Colonel Hollister's big ranch, or farm, with all possible and some impossible (to us) fruits, and cream, buttermilk, honey and sweet cider, without extra charge. Nobody wants liquors of the stronger kinds. It is the place to forget them in.

The climate, unlike that of Nice and the South of Europe, does not send any one off as summer approaches. The thermometer don't vary here over fifteen degrees the year round, and there is none of that after frost o'clock p. m. chill in the air, so hard for the weak to bear in the Mediterranean climates.

Besides the great hotels, there are very many hospitable boarding houses, suitable to all incomes.

We also write this testify in no selfish interest. We have to go back to our world of every-day work. But we want others to find what we have found here, strength and rest, to take back with us. And so we close with the greeting of the good Mission of Santa Barbara fathers to the world outside the cloistered peace of their ilves. PAX VOBISCUM.

MOTHERS BUY B. & S. HOMEOPATHIC COUGH & CROUP SYRUP. HAS STOOD THE TEST OF TIME.

PRICE PER BOTTLE, FIFTY CENTS.

The Safest, Most Reliable, and One of the Oldest Family Medicines in the Market.

Thousands of families are constantly using it in different parts of the Union. Recommended by physicians as the most convenient and utmost remedy for CROUP. Keep it on hand for emergencies. The attacks of Croup come on so suddenly and unexpectedly, usually in the middle of the night, when medicine cannot be readily had. To be afraid, that a few, pleasant doses may be taken, and always ready for use—becomes a great desideratum. All these conditions are fulfilled by B. & S. Homeopathic Cough and Croup Syrup.

This preparation has been in use for over twenty-five years, and thousands of valuable lives have been saved. As a remedy for Coughs, Catarrh on the Chest, Bronchitis and Pneumonia it is without a peer, for children as well as adults. In Asthma, especially after a confirmed case, it is a perfect specific, relieving at once and preventing their return. B. & S. Homeopathic Cough and Croup Syrup does away with the necessity of resorting to all sorts of soothing syrups, which annually destroy so many little lives as this preparation saves. It is safe to nature in curing or relieving all diseases of the respiratory organs, whether acute or chronic.

The above to be had at all drug stores, or may be obtained direct from our Elocution Class at the Ellis Villa College.

Yesterday Miss Lydia Bell closed her first term as Professor of Elocution at the Ellis Villa College. The exercises consisted of a recital by her class, and the pieces selected ranged through the entire elocutionary scale. To say that the occasion was eminently creditable to both the teacher and her class is to do scant justice to it. It was so evident that thorough work had been done and great progress made, that from beginning to end the applause of the audience was not only enthusiastic, but at the close of the exercises expressions of intense satisfaction were general.

PERKINS - BALDWIN.

Developments of Another Day in Court.

THE PLAINTIFF FULLY HOLDS HER OWN.

End of the Long Cross-Examination, in Which She is Not Shaken—The Decisive Re-Direct—The Mother's Story.

Promptly at 9:30 yesterday morning court was rapped to order, and the roll of jurors called. Miss Perkins had arrived with her attorneys five minutes before. She showed the fatigue of Thursday's long battle, but less than would have been expected. Then entered Baldwin and Colonel Wells, and last of all Colonel Howard. The clerk started to read the minutes up to date. At the point of empaneling the jury, he was stopped and got no further. A forty-minute discussion ended with instructions to the clerk to incorporate in the record, a long abstract of proceedings as to motions for change of venue.

At 10:20 Miss Perkins took the stand, and Colonel Wells resumed the cross-examination. In answer to his queries, her evidence condensed, was as follows:

"I stopped with Mrs. Laird in Los Angeles, 330 South Spring street, in February or March, 1884, for two weeks. Some meals were prepared ourselves, and some we took outside. We had one room. Frank Stoddard never visited my boarding-house. Colton, nor took refreshments with me. My first acquaintance with him was at Colton, in June or July, 1883. He was a single man, [now a brother-in-law of I. W. Lord.] I never saw him there except in the public parlor. Never became intoxicated with him. Never was intoxicated in my life."

COLONEL WELLS'S VALUABLE NOTES.

Here began a serious trouble, which agitated the proceedings more or less until the noon recess. It will be remembered that last June Miss Perkins was examined before Court Commissioner Baxter, at defendant's request. Her deposition at that time was made out by Judge Baxter in long-hand; he writing out each question as it was asked, and then reading it over aloud in the presence of both sides to see that it was absolutely correct; and similarly recording and verifying each answer as it was given. This document, when completed, made the official—and the only official—deposition, and covered all that was brought out in the examination. But that was not good enough for Colonel Wells, so he had a shorthand stenographer make a short-hand report at the same time, under his direction and at his expense. It was of course valueless as the official report which was signed and certified. But Colonel Wells insisted on cross-examining the witness from his report, despite numerous injunctions to use the deposition. The official report was so full that in answer to a question as to whether Frank Stoddard had not waited upon plaintiff and visited her in her bed-room at Colton at night, she answered, "He did until upon me a few times." Colonel Wells's report in stating this answer omitted the three all-important words "wait upon me;" thus making out that plaintiff admitted Stoddard's having visited her in her bed-room at night; an admission which there was no foundation for, as she had flatly denied ever saying that Stoddard thus visited her; and denied that he did thus visit her. Mr. White objected to Colonel Wells's use of the unverified notes, and the court fully sustained the objection. There was considerable talking done, but Colonel Wells proceeded with his unverified notes, Mr. White withdrawing his objection with an air of disgust.

Colonel Wells: "Did you ever say at that examination that Stoddard came to your room?"

Miss Perkins (firmly): "No, sir!"

Colonel Wells then read from another part of his private report, in which she admitted that Baldwin had several times asked her to come and live with him, saying he would adopt her. She said that that was a statement believed she went out riding with Baldwin on the day they were engaged.

RE-HANKERED FOR THE DATE.

Colonel Wells tried to get witness to state the exact day of the month on which the engagement was made, but plaintiff could not remember. Colonel Wells to Judge Baxter that she couldn't remember the day of the week, only the date. Testimony which proved that the date was the 10th, on or about the 12th of April. Had made no other engagement of marriage with Baldwin save on or about that day.

The Court, after considerable trouble, instructed Col. Wells to take the actual deposition, and not an "unauthenticated something outside." Col. Wells insisted on using the short-hand report taken under his direction and at his expense.

Col. Wells: "Did you in that deposition say you first told your mother in the first part of June, '83, of the engagement?"

Miss Perkins: "Yes, sir."

Col. Wells: "Did you say you wore the diamond engagement ring at home, and your mother made no inquiries about it until you told her in June of the engagement?"

Miss Perkins: "Yes, sir."

Similar questions as to the bracelets and watch were similarly answered.

Col. Wells: "Did you ever write to your father, prior to June, anything about your engagement?"

Miss Perkins: "I don't think I did to my father. Don't remember if I told him afterwards."

SAT DOWN UPON.

Col. Wells [still using his private report]: "Did you ever write Judge Baxter that Mr. Baldwin's conduct in trying to kiss you excited your indignation for the moment, but Mrs. Dexter laughed at you and said that was nothing at all, and not to mind it?"

Miss Perkins: "I'll take charge of the cross-examination myself. I will insist that you take the deposition and read the questions from it. I will not allow you to carve up further any outside reports or notes, or any notes taken by you at that time, when the authentic report is here."

Colonel Wells accepted to him task.

The last question given above was then read from the deposition, and Miss Perkins answered "Yes" as before.

SHIFTING THE ATTACK.

Then Colonel Wells dropped the deposition and went to matters of general cross-examination. In answer to his queries, Miss Perkins said she knew Ben Goffin, an employee at the ranch, by sight. Never talked with him in the barn, nor where she was found in an indelicate position with him by Mrs. Dexter. Never was caught or interrupted in an indecent situation with Fred. Dexter in a bed-room at Baldwin's ranch. "It is false. Knew Silas Baldwin's sister, Mrs. Laird, in San Francisco, by sight. Never had a conversation with him in the pantry, asking him to intercede with me in his gentleman-with money. Mr. Baldwin never caught me in any such conversation, nor reprimanded me for it. No such conversation ever took place."

Colonel Wells [after much struggling, and complication of his question, in which himself, the Court, jury, witness and stenographer became bewildered]: "Did you, in September, 1883, at Mr. Baldwin's table in San Francisco, in the presence of Mrs. Baldwin, Miss Brodrick, Lulu Drum and Silas Colbert, have a conversation whose purport was as follows:

CMr. Baldwin charged you with having given out that you were engaged to him and that you might be the future Mrs. Baldwin; you denied that you had ever told anyone anything of that sort; Lulu Drum contradicted you, and said you had told her so; she charged you with falsehood, and you left the table in tears; and charged her with falsifying; Baldwin asked you if he had ever mentioned marriage to you, and you said he had never intimated it. Did you have any such conversation?"

Miss Perkins (warmly): "It is false! I never had any such conversation. I never saw Miss Broderick or Lulu Drum after my second visit to San Francisco."

Colonel Wells: "Didn't you have a conversation with Mr. Baldwin next day, in which he reminded you of the above, and you tell him that if you had said anything about an engagement of marriage it was to justify your presence at his house, and allay gossip?"

Miss Perkins: "No, sir. I had no such conversation with him. The only reason why I had kept the engagement secret was because he often cautioned me not to tell anyone about it."

Here Williams was combative, and had to be suppressed by Court several times, for "going after" Bro. Wells.

Miss Perkins, on further cross-examination, responded that she did not remember having, on or about March 29, 1884, any intention of entering the Sisters' Convent in this city. Didn't remember having expressed any such intention, orally or in writing, to Charles Blakeley at El Monte. Then, to further questioning:

"From January, 1884, when I came back from San Francisco, till I entered the Convent, I lived with my parents. Don't remember being away from home a week at a time, except once in Los Angeles, with Mrs. Laird, and once with my sister, Mrs. Clark, in the Azusa."

Colonel Wells: "Why did you leave Steward's?"

Miss Perkins: "Mr. Sheward discharged me because he said I was not competent for the position. He did not say a word about any misconduct on my part with gentlemen."

Colonel Wells then tried to drag in the familiar Perkins-Fallon escapade. The court objected to this matter after Baldwin's marriage, and said it hadn't a year to try the case in.

Mr. White: "As the gentleman has stated before the jury that he intends to show lascivious conduct on Miss Perkins's part with Fallon, about April, 1885, we shall not object to his opening this matter. He can go on and show all he wishes of misconduct on her part after Baldwin had broken his contract. It only shows what she had become through Baldwin."

It being noon, court took a recess till 2 o'clock.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

More Cross-Examination—Re-direct—Mrs. Perkins Talks.

At 2 p. m. the court came to order with the usual preliminaries. Judge Hatch announced that he would rule out all evidence as to the Fallon escapade, and all other matters subsequent to May 20, 1884, the date of Baldwin's marriage to Miss Bennett. The matter, first, is affirmative; second, does not come under the cross-examination; third, is irrelevant; and fourth, has not been opened by plaintiff. Colonel Wells excepted to the ruling, and there was a technical discussion. Colonel Wells repeated his question whether plaintiff had not gone to San Diego with Will Dalton in April, 1885, and occupied the same room with him. He said the repetition was to get the ruling of the court exactly; but it might have been to impress the escapade on the minds of the jury. The court seemed to take this view of it, and said: "The jury is instructed not to attach any credit to, nor to take under consideration at all, any misconduct alleged by counsel to have been committed by the plaintiff subsequent to defendant's marriage, May 20, 1884."

Mr. White: "On your honor's ruling, I merely made a formal objection to the introduction of this evidence. Really, we have no objection. As the defense has opened up this matter, we would personally prefer to have it sifted to the very bottom, and show by plaintiff went and how she went. If your honor is willing to admit that evidence, we are."

The Court: "When I get ready to admit that sort of evidence, I will let counsel know. I am not ready yet."

Col. Wells resumed the cross-examination at 2:20. To his questions Miss Perkins said that she introduced Baldwin to Mrs. Laird in Baldwin's house on the occasion of her second visit to San Francisco. Didn't know that he had ever met Mrs. Laird before.

The Old Mother's Story.

At 3:20 Mrs. Charlotte Perkins was sworn and took the stand. She is a heavy, plainly-dressed lady, about fifty years old, clad in dead black, and with the homely, country face of an old farmer's wife. She seemed anxious and sad. Her evidence, as elicited by Mr. White, condenses as follows:

"My husband's name is Thomas, and he is a farmer. We have been married thirty-four years last June. We came from Maine to California twenty-eight years ago. Louise is our only child. She was born in Grass Valley, Nevada county, and was nineteen last July. We lived some years in Ventura county in the Cañada Larga, about four miles from Huenême, and came to Los Angeles county six years ago last November, settling on the McDonald ranch, near Compton. Louise went to school in the Ocean View district a short time, and then to the public school at Compton. In February, '83, Louise returned to El Monte and upon land which my husband rented of E. J. Baldwin. Our daughter went back to Compton to the same school, from the Ranch to the last of June, and then returned home. While in Compton she boarded with Linda Gates, Mrs. Russell, and a family near Mr. Grias. First saw Mr. Baldwin to speak to him in December, I think, 1882. He called at my house and invited my daughter to go to ride with him to the Monte, where he had some men at work. Had seen him before in San Francisco, but have her stay at the ranch. I objected, but Baldwin said he had always cared for her and advised her right, and wanted to make her his wife. * * Until my daughter went to Compton to school, she had been very little away from home. I knew of her going to Colton in July, 1883, and that she went to see Mrs. Laird. I had lived a near neighbor to her in Ventura county—and never heard of anything improper about her. She invited my daughter to Colton. I remember when Mrs. Laird came to Los Angeles for a few days, and put a room at 330 Spring street. Then my daughter joined her to keep her company. They were kept in the city longer than they intended, because the Los Angeles river was then on a freshet. There were big washouts, and travel was interrupted for a couple of weeks."

This ended Mrs. Perkins's evidence at 4:40. The weary defense did not care to start in on the job of cross-examination, and court adjourned till 10 this morning. The outcome of the day was decidedly in favor of plaintiff. She and her mother had both made an extremely favorable impression.
